HANDS AROUND THE MISSION

INTERVIEW WITH MONSIGNOR
J. MICHAEL MCKIERNAN
NEW MISSION PASTOR

RECORD BREAKING GALA
AN EVENING OF ELEGANCE AND PURPOSE

HEROES IN PRESERVATION
n September 12th, the day of our annual Romance of the Mission gala, as I hurriedly walked the grounds searching for perfection, I met 100-year-old “Attie.” A woman who earned her master’s degree in 1941 in social work. A strong, forgiving, positive woman of color. I took a moment and asked her about her life. She shares with me how her husband’s father lived with them early in her marriage -- he was a freed slave!

Attie had lived through 100 years of civil rights and had “seen it all.” She was a proud American who experienced segregation and never learned to swim because the pool was only allowed one day a week to blacks back then. Out of protest she said she decided to never learn to swim. She did social work cases until 1985 and saw changes that allowed her to be seen as an equal professional -- early in her days she was not allowed to handle cases involving whites. At 100 years of age she cited faith and optimism for her positive reflection on a life that had virtually paralleled U.S. history -- and was historic itself. She was pretty, lively and let me hug her.

As I reflect on Attie’s visit, I believe the purpose in meeting her was to be reminded of what’s really important as we work to execute the daily duties of a landmark that is open 363 days a year to over 300,000 annual visitors.

In what I would describe as the “September Whirlwind” for me and my team – I acknowledge that sometimes we get caught up in the administrative functions of things, asking ourselves repeatedly, “How is a concert going? Is it raising funds for preservation? How is attendance? Is the Store doing OK? When do we start our next project?”

While those are top of mind worries, the ideals of preservation and care for a landmark are what really sustains us. To deliver a landmark into its 238th year means finding new messages and means to keep it relevant while not selling out its deeper meaning. To sustain the Mission’s religious and historic significance requires at some level, a sense of spirituality about the site, its builders, and the people who visit. It also requires us to reexamine what we are doing and push ourselves to do and be more.

While September was marked with a rock-n-roll concert, a romantic gala and a large-scale public effort to hold hands around a mission, it was also a month that clearly reminded me that the Mission is always first a place that welcomes people - each with a history of their own -- and to look to them for inspiration.

While September was a marathon, it was one worth running. Meeting Attie was a gift, as she was the right person at the right time to remind me of what I already know. I am better for meeting her.

See you on the path,

Sala Preservation Project

In the coming year, the Mission Preservation Foundation will undertake the Sala Preservation Project, a three phased preservation effort of an original 18th century building and adjoining spaces such as the Sacred Garden and Campanario or bell wall. This building has served as padres quarters, a chapel, a home and a curio shop and has withstood the test of time, change in ownership, the prosperity, decline and renewal of a landmark that is now nearly 240 years old.

As a result of completion of the Gate House Preservation Project, the Sala (circa 1800) has been hosting the “Camposanto Exhibit: a historical tribute to the Mission’s Cemetery” while the conditions assessments were being carried out to identify the scope of work needed to restore the building. With that first phase now complete, and the budget and scope of work identified, an aggressive schedule to save the building has been developed.

The next step involves Phase II of the project which includes interior and exterior conservation, scheduled for completion in September 2015. Phase III of the Sala Preservation Project will involve the museum room build-out, which is set to begin in early 2015. The overall cost of all three phases is $750,000. of which all is being funded through gala, private donations and store net proceeds. Nearly $100,000 remains needed for the final phase.

To give a gift, please contact Mechelle Lawrence Adams at (949) 234-1311 or Barb Beier at (949) 234-1323.

Serra Chapel Access Improvement

In an effort to improve the visitor’s access of the Serra Chapel from the east gate, the Mission will begin it’s East Gate Serra Gate Accessibility Improvement Project in November.

The $70,000 safety and access project which will replace stairs adjoining El Camino Real with a ramp, is scheduled to begin this fall and is funded by donations. The improvements will be completed in time for the annual Christmas at the Mission event.
Within the historic Serra Chapel, Mission San Juan Capistrano provides daily inspiration and hope for those suffering from cancer and other challenges. The Chapel features the patron saint of cancer sufferers, St. Peregrine.

This summer, the landmark hosted its first ever yoga-inspired, stretch and strength classes in honor of St. Peregrine in an effort to raise funds in order to support its many visitors who suffer from cancer. With the series designed to accept donations for after-hours admission, funds were used to pay for an instructor from “I Heart Yoga in the Park” with the hopes that net proceeds could support the American Cancer Society Relay for Life of San Juan Capistrano.

During the three class series, over 300 people attended this program generating the net proceeds of $1,176.50. A check was presented to the American Cancer Society Relay for Life of San Juan Capistrano during the Mission’s annual Fab Four: Beatles tribute summer concert in late August.

The Mission Preservation Foundation looks forward to hosting a stretch and strength series again next summer in honor of St. Peregrine and all who are battling the fight against cancer.

“Camposanto” Closing Soon

By Megan Dukett

Mission San Juan Capistrano has been honored to present “Camposanto: A Tribute to the Mission Cemetery History” since October 2013. Now is the time to get one last look as the exhibit will close for good on January 5, 2015.

“Camposanto: A Tribute to the Mission Cemetery History” pays homage to the landmark Mission Cemetery which is located east of Serra Chapel. The camposanto -- or “holy field” -- was a common term Franciscan padres used for “cemetery.” The Mission cemetery was in active use for nearly 70 years, the first burial most likely was in 1781, and the last around 1850.

The tribute features information on the burial register, history of burial practices during the Mission period, the cemetery’s first burial of Monsignor St. John O’Sullivan in 1934, as well as a pictorial timeline of how the Mission cemetery visually changed over time.

The tribute is on display daily from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the historic Sala building through January 5, 2015.
Mission Sets Record with Hands Around the Mission

As part of the celebration marking Orange County’s 125th birthday, Mission San Juan Capistrano tried to set a first ever local record for “largest hug around a California mission” with its Hands Around the Mission event on September 13.

In an effort to promote the love of historical sites, the Mission gathered approximately 1,000 volunteers who combined to hold hands around the perimeter of the grounds, which measure about 11 acres.

The participants held hands for 10 minutes which was documented via aerial photography. All participants received an official certificate of participation. The Mission also offered free admission to all Orange County residents as part of the celebration.

Mission San Juan Capistrano, recognized as the birthplace of Orange County and the county’s most historic landmark, was also the primary donor for San Juan Capistrano’s OC’s 125th celebration throughout the city.

Mission Hosts OC Docent League

Mission San Juan Capistrano will host the Orange County Docent League, partnering with the San Juan Capistrano Historical Society and the Mission Docent Society on Monday, October 6. The theme of the event is “Preservation is our Mission.”

This event will begin at the Historical Society, followed by a tour of Los Rios Street and Montanez Adobe, then a walk to the Mission, organized by the San Juan Capistrano Historical Society.

Afterward, lunch will be served, with Mission Executive Director, Mechelle Lawrence Adams keynote speaking on the meaning of historic places for a community and guiding a tour of the Mission.
Setting a Record. Romance of the Mission, an Evening of Elegance and Purpose

The Mission Preservation Foundation’s Romance of the Mission benefit gala was attended by a record 480 guests and set another record with net proceeds at an estimated $260,000. Highlights included a stunning concert by Broadway star David Burnham in the ruins of the Great Stone Church and a ceremony honoring El Viaje de Portolá for their extensive support of Mission Preservation efforts. All proceeds will further the preservation of historic Mission San Juan Capistrano including phase two of the historic Sala building conservation.

After social hour in the Mission’s beautiful front gardens, Mission San Juan Capistrano Executive Director Mechelle Lawrence Adams was joined by Mission Preservation Board President George O’Connell to welcome guests and recognize El Viaje de Portolá represented by El Presidente Tony Gregory.

During her opening remarks Lawrence Adams said, “Tonight we gather to take part in an evening of elegance and purpose of raising awareness and funds to protect and preserve this California landmark. We celebrate 11 years since our first concert in the ruins of the Great Stone Church. Back then hosting an event like this evening was a dream and a risk and today it is a tradition.”

Burnham’s concert was both moving and energetic featuring a variety of Broadway hits and classics including a moving rendition and event tradition of When the Swallows Come Back to Capistrano.

While leaving the concert, attendees experienced a 237-year bell ringing tradition by official Mission bell ringer Nathan Banda. Guests then walked through the historic Resurgam displaying the Forster’s family saddle before entering Mission San Juan’s Main Courtyard exquisitely set for a gourmet plated four-course candlelight dinner masterfully prepared and served by The Ritz-Carlton, Laguna Niguel with wine parings by Fetzer Vineyards.

Gala committee members were recognized by Don Dorkowski and Steven Szenasi while George O’Connell offered a toast to all past benefit gala honorees. Gala committee member and Mission Board Preservation Foundation member Madeline Swinden drew the opportunity drawing winners featuring a Ritz-Carlton, Laguna Niguel get-a-way, Montana Sporting Club experience and an 18 kt white gold bracelet donated by Roberto Coin Boutique, Fashion Island. Reverend Monsignor J. Michael McKiernan led the invocation prior to dinner.

In addition to The Ritz-Carlton, Laguna Niguel and Fetzer Vineyards, supporters and sponsors included Microsemi, O’Connell Family Foundation, EJ Tracy, the Cvengros Family, Joan Irvine Smith & Athalie R. Clarke Foundation, the Sukut Family Foundation, the Schreiber Family and Tracy Industries, Inc.

Candlelit tables featured floral arrangements by Floral Occasions of San Juan Capistrano and each guest received a set of embossed leather coasters. Visit www.missionsjc.com to view a slideshow of event photos from this year’s gala.

Welcome! Monsignor J. Michael McKiernan, New Mission Pastor

Monsignor J. Michael McKiernan, named the 35th pastor of Mission Basilica San Juan Capistrano by Bishop of Orange Kevin Vann, took over his new post on July 1.

“It’s a wonderful opportunity and I consider it a great honor,” Msgr. McKiernan said. “One of the things I’ve learned is when you get into a new position, particularly as a pastor, is to see how things are done out of respect for how they’ve done things for a long time. In the last two months I have been spending a lot of time asking ‘Why?’ or ‘How come?’ It’s been a real learning experience.”

Msgr. McKiernan says one thing is certain in terms of his goals for Mission San Juan Capistrano.

“The one thing that I would love to do is to continue the wonderful legacy that is here, and the wonderful history that is here,” he said. “There are wonderful employees here, particularly the new principal of Mission Basilica School and the Executive Director of the Historic Mission, and I’m very blessed to have both of them. Alycia Beresford and Mechelle Lawrence Adams are just wonderful assets to me and great working partners in us building up the whole Mission complex.

“We don’t have to reinvent the wheel here, because the wheel is spinning pretty well.”

Msgr. McKiernan is a Diocesan priest, coming from former Parish, Christ Our Savior. His interests range from meeting new parishioners to learning more about California history. A “people person,” he has quickly met the Campus staff and gotten involved with the success of the landmark, debuting at the Romance of the Mission benefit gala by offering the dinner invocation.
